SENATE AND THE TREATY

Consideration of the Isthmian Canal Convention Has Begun.

ITS CHIEF POINTS EXPLAINED

Speaker Henderson Has Announced the Appointment of the Committees of the House.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The open session of the Senate today was devoted to routine business, such as the presentation of petitions, memorials and bills. The senate then went into executive session on motion of Senator Lodge to take up the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

After a number of nominations had been confirmed, Senator Lodge called up the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and made a brief statement regarding that convention. The senate then adjourned in order to give the Democratic committee an opportunity to hold a meeting. Mr. Lodge contended that the new treaty does away with all the objectionable features of the treaty of the Clarendon and enumerates the particulars in which the revised agreement differs from the action of the senate of the first congress when the old treaty was before it. He analyzed the new treaty from beginning to end, showing that in specific terms it abrogates the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850, which, he said, had stood constantly in the way of the construction of an Isthmian canal. The abrogation of this treaty, he contended, was a most important element, and he did not believe that the United States would lose an opportunity to make secure that concession. Senator Lodge also called attention to the omission in Paragraph one of Article three of the words "in time of war as in time of peace." He said that in the canal treaty the paragraph read: "The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of nations on terms of entire equality."

He urged that the omission of the phrase had the effect practically to place the United States to do with the canal in time of war according to its own pleasure.

He also referred to the fact that rule six of the treaty of the powers regulating the control of the Suez canal which had been embodied in the original Hay-Pauncefote treaty, had been omitted in the revised draft. He quoted this rule which provided that "the fortifications shall be erected commanding the canal or the waters adjacent, etc." This, he said, was a material concession to the United States and was quite sufficient to meet the objections made against the agreement, that the United States would no have power to protect its property. It practically left the United States to fortify the canal in case it should be considered desirable to do so, and was in line with the omission of the restriction keeping the canal open in time of war. The fact that the invitation contained in the other treaty to the various powers to give their adherence to the agreement had been eliminated from the new convention, he said, was another compliance with the action of the senate or the original treaty.

These concessions, Mr. Lodge urged, were ample, and he contended that they were of such a nature as to render the new treaty acceptable to all American citizens who wanted to see a canal constructed. Practically he said, Great Britain had agreed to turn the entire management of the canal over to the United States not only in time of peace but, in time of war, and no one could doubt that in case of hostilities the United States would be at liberty to construe the omission of the clause in Rule 1 as having this effect.

Senator Culberson asked Mr. Lodge if it was not true that Article VIII of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty establishing the general principle of neutralization was retained in the new arrangement but Mr. Lodge replied that while there was a declaration to the effect that the general principle of neutralization established by the article was still to be kept alive, the whole tenor of the new treaty was to neutralize and cancel the old agreement. He did not consider that the article would be of effect any longer. It is understood that the treaty will be called tomorrow.

HOUSE SUB-COMMITTEES ON APPROPRIATIONS

By Associated Press.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The house committee on appropriations held its first session today and Chairman Cannon announced the membership of the subcommittees which will prepare the various supply of bills, as follows:

Sundry civil—Cannon, Moody, Hemenway, McRae and Benton.
Fortifications—Hemenway, Littauer, Gardiner, McRae and Bell.
Deficiencies—Cannon, Barney, Van Voorhis, Livingston and Pierce.
Permanent Appropriations—Moody, Brownlow, Gardner, Pierce and Tayler.

These subcommittees will begin work at once. Chairman Cannon said, however, that as the holiday recess would begin on December 19, it was not likely that any appropriation bills would be passed before then. Mr. Cannon also stated that it was the view of the committee that all work on appropriations could be disposed of so that congress could adjourn by June 1 next.

FEDERATION DISCUSSED ORIENTAL EXCLUSION

By Associated Press.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 10.—The exclusion of Chinese, Japanese and and other Asiatics from American territory, ticket building legislation and the anti-trust bill, including a universal label for trade goods, were the principal subjects that claimed the attention of delegates at today's two sessions of the American Federation of Labor. The resolutions advocating the exclusion of the Chinese were adopted by the convention with considerable hurrahing in the matter of excluding the subjects of Japan and other Asiatic countries was struck, and this part of the anti-Mongolian agitation was not so far as the present convention is concerned. The special committee having charge of the exclusion matter was unanimous in favorably reporting the Chinese section of the resolution but was divided in regard to the Japanese. The Pacific delegates led the discussion on the Chinese exclusion but were divided when it came to excluding other orientals. The burden of the remarks of those opposed to the Japanese resolution was that Chinese immigration was the greater evil of the two and that to insist upon some restrictive law to prevent a Japanese invasion may endanger the passage by congress of the Chinese act.

The ticket scalping debate was a lively affair. When the viva voce vote was taken those in favor of permitting ticket scalping won by an overwhelming majority. The agitation for a universal label, which has been carried on for a long time, was again defeated.

EXPLOSION IN THE SHARON STEEL WORKS

By Associated Press.

Sharon, Pa., Dec. 10.—An explosion that shook the earth for miles around, shattered windows in hundreds of houses at South Sharon, moved adjacent buildings from their foundations and caused the injury of nine men, two perhaps fatally, occurred at the Sharon Steel company's plant today. The explosion occurred in the casting department of the Pig mill, as the metal was being poured from the ladle into the casting machine when it came in contact with some water, which caused a blast that was felt a great distance. The casting house was completely wrecked. Large strips of heavy corrugated iron beams and other material were hurled hundreds of yards by the explosion. The casting machine and conveyor were damaged almost beyond repair. A part of the conveyor was blown several hundred feet while not a vestige of the iron roof of the mill remained.

MEETING OF NATIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

By Associated Press.

New York, Dec. 10.—Directors Brush, Freedman, Robinson and Soden of the National league went into session at the Fifth Avenue hotel this afternoon and after two hours' session the regular meeting of the league was called. Adjournment was taken until evening. In the ordinary course of business the election of officers for the ensuing year would be one of the first matters to come up for consideration. But it was said tonight that the election would be deferred and the other business before the session would be taken up first. An hour after the evening meeting began President Young came from the room and remained for some time. He intimated that the presidential question was being informally discussed. Brush's plan, it is said, provides for the abolition of the office of president of the league. He proposes investing the governing power in a board of managers to be composed of four men. The directors refused to talk about the American league or the new minor league organization.

PLATINUM FOUND WITH YUKON GOLD

By Associated Press.

Montreal, Dec. 10.—C. S. Hurler, Dominion government metallurgist of Vancouver, is responsible for the statement that among the millions of dollars of Yukon gold brought to him for purchase by the government this season was an abundance of platinum, unknown to the miners. Hundreds of little nuggets of platinum were mixed with the coarse gold. Mr. Hurler gave it as his opinion that the miners of the Yukon were throwing away thousands of dollars worth of platinum daily. The Dominion government is now sending an expert to the Klondike to investigate the matter.

WATTERSON AT BANQUET

Delivered a Notable Address on Massachusetts and Kentucky

BEFORE BOSTON MERCHANTS

Other Speakers Were Senator Hanna Charles Emory Smith and the Japanese Minister.

By Associated Press.

Boston, Dec. 10.—The Boston merchants association met in the Vendome hotel this morning, in celebration of its 25th anniversary and was entertained by four men of national reputation who made spirited addresses, chiefly along political lines. Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith spoke on reciprocity. Kogorlo Takahira, the Japanese minister upon the subject of Commercial Relations, Senator M. A. Hanna on the ship subsidy bill, and Henry Watterson of Kentucky, on "Kentucky and Massachusetts."

Postmaster General Smith, in his address, said:

"Reciprocity is the collary of protection. It is not a departure but a development. Reciprocity does not mean a sacrifice of one industry in order to help another."

Colonel Watterson of Kentucky, was greeted with three cheers.

Mr. Watterson said:

In the event that I am ever a candidate for president of the United States, which heaven forbid, I shall need the electoral vote of Massachusetts or, rather let me say, that I never expect to become a candidate for that office until assured in advance of that vote—and this being agreed upon, you will not think me taking advantage of your hospitality, or making a self-seeking electioneering use of it, when I say that I love Massachusetts. I love Massachusetts because Massachusetts loves liberty, and I love liberty. If I am a crank about anything it is about my right at all times and under all circumstances to talk out in meeting. There is but one human being in this world whom I bow down to and obey, and she is not here this evening—she is at home. I come here for pleasure—and, therefore, I am going to proceed just as though I were in reality Julius Caesar.

Massachusetts and Kentucky.

Boston, I believe, is in Massachusetts, and the Bostonese, I am told, possess the conceit of themselves. It is a handy thing to have about the house, and in your case happens to be founded in fact, I at least shall not deny your claim to many good things which have come to pass since the birth of Benjamin Franklin and on down to the completion of the subway and the new passenger stations. And yet back in the neck of woods where I abide there are those who think that Kentucky is "no slouch." A story is told of an old darky in slave-holding days who declared that his young master was the greatest man that ever lived. "Is he greater than Henry Clay?" "Yas, sir." "Greater than General Jackson?" "Yas, sir." "Well, come now, Uncle Ephraim, you won't say that he is greater than the Almighty." Uncle Ephraim was stumped for a moment. "I won't say dat, sah; no, sah, but he ber's young yit." Kentucky may not be all that Massachusetts is; but Kentucky is "ber's young yit."

You have here the accretions of nearly three centuries of thinking and doing. A single century ago the hunters of Kentucky were threading their way by the light of pine-knot and rifle-crack through the trackless canebrake and the perilous forest to plant the flag which you worship and I adore upon the first stage of its westward journey around the world. During that war of sections which extinguished African slavery and created a nation, Massachusetts was so divided that she sent an equal number of soldiers into both of the contending armies. Though out the period succeeding the chaos of that great upheaval, whilst Massachusetts stood off at long range and took a speculative crack at all creation, Kentucky had to grapple with its realities; to bind up the wounds of the body-corporate; to recover the equipoise of the body-politic; to bury a lost cause and to repair the breaches among the combatants. We did it. We are still doing what is left of it for us to do. And, though we lack somewhat of the wealth which enables you to wish for a thing, and to have it, and, perhaps, the training and methods of order, which have come down to you from these bloody riots in which you will not deny that your fathers engaged at Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill—yea, in the streets of this very town—we are getting there, and, let me repeat, Kentucky is young yet.

Not so young, however, that long before many of us here present were born she was not old enough to go partners with Massachusetts, to help the manufacturers fleece the farmers, under the pretension that high protective duties would develop our infant industries and make everybody rich.

Two Kinds of Free Trade.

I beg you will not be alarmed. I am not going to discuss the tariff. Twenty-five years ago, I ventured in a modest Democratic platform, and in other simple, childlike ways, to advance the theory that "custom house taxation," and I might have added all taxation, "shall be for revenue only;" in other words that the government has no constitutional right nor power, in equity, to levy a dollar of taxation except for its own support, and that, when the sum required has been obtained, the tax shall stop. They called me names. They said I was a revolutionist. They even went the length of intimating that I was a radical, and that, you know, down our way, is equivalent to telling a man he is a son-of-a-gun from Boston! Worse than all, I was heralded and stigmatized as a free trader. Heavy old infant industries, extolling the oleaginous substance of both sides out of every pore, climbed upon their haunches and with tears in their eyes exclaimed: "What would you deprive us children not only of our pap, but take from us the means of aiding the poor workingman to earn a living?" Being a person of tender sensibilities, there were times when I wanted to creep off somewhere and weep. Lo! the scene shifts, and what do I see? I see the Republican party, which was so aghast at the old-fashioned, allopathic treatment I prescribed, coming out as a full-fledged free trader on the homeopathic plan; its hands full of protocolic pellets loaded with reciprocity capsules; each capsule nicely sugared to suit the fancy of such infants as accept the treatment, each pill-box bearing the old reliable protectionist label.

I should be disingenuous if I affected surprise. Indeed, the event fulfills a prophecy of my own. Many years ago, talking to a company of manufacturers at Pittsburg, I declared that the day was not far distant when Pennsylvania would be for free trade, whilst a protectionist party would be growing in Kentucky; that with plants perfected, with trade-marks fixed and patents secure, Pennsylvania, seeking cheaper processes and wider markets, would say, away with the tariff, whilst the owners of raw material, the coal barons, and the "land lords of Kentucky, would cry out, "hold on, we don't want the robbing to stop until we have got our share of it."

I have lived to see—and I do not deny protectionism its share of the credit—my contention being that it was bound to come and might have been had cheaper—I have lived to see the American manufacturer able to meet his foreign rival in every neutral market in Christendom, sure at least of recovering and controlling those markets that geographically belong to him, because, from a collar-button to a locomotive, the finished product of the American manufacturer today beats the world.

And this leads me to ask, if all of us are to turn free traders, where is the revenue needful to support the government economically administered, mind you; economically administered—to come from? We are barred direct taxation, Henry George being dead, and Tom Johnson alone surviving Massachusetts, the bell-wether of innovation, will have to wrestle with the single tax problem, even as long as she wrestled with the problem of abolition; and, meanwhile, somehow, the government must live. Is it possible that, being a conservative philosopher and a responsible journalist, I must go back upon my own property, cross my own foot-prints, and become the champion of some new tariff with "incidental protection," enough to supply our poor president, and his advisers, and our poor congress, and other of our impecunious employes in the public service with the means of keeping out of the poor house? Shall there be another scandal about another union between Massachusetts and Kentucky, another league between the Puritan and the blackleg, another era of bargain, intrigue and corruption as a consequence of our forgathering here tonight? Can it be that it was for this you would lure the starved one away from the cold pedestal whereon, like Niobe, she stands all tears, to these gilded halls and festive scenes? I was warned before I left home that those Yankees are unkinky cure, and I am afraid that, when I get back, the wise ones will shake their heads and wonder what kind of walking it was between Boston Common and the head-waters of the Bearcrags.

To Bear and to Forbear.

Forgive the levity. But, what a comedy the thing we call government, what a humbug the thing we call politics! And yet, after all, how inevitable! I have seen some real battles in my time; but more sham battles, and I do declare that I much prefer the sham battles to the real battles. I shall always contend that politics is not war; that party lines are not lines of battle. I believe that we shall never approach the ideal in government until we have forced public men to speak the truth and live up to the line in public affairs, even as in private affairs the same laws of honor holding good in both; and, while I would not exclude sentiment than I would stop the circulation of blood, many lessons of dear-bought experience admonish me that we are as a rule nearest to being in error when we are most positive and emphatic; that grievous injustice and injury are perpetrated by the misrepresentation and abuse which are so freely visited upon public men for no other cause, or offense, than a difference of opinion; and that intolerance, the devil's hand-maiden, in our private relations, embraces the sum of all viciousness in the affairs of church and state.

Among men of sense and judgment, of heart and conscience, the subjects of real difference must needs be few and infrequent. Even these may be often accommodated without hurt to any interest, all government being more or less a bundle of compromises. It is that we do in the aggregate what no one of us would dream of doing in severality, the point turning perhaps upon the division of responsibility, but more upon the pressure which in excited times the wrong-headed and stout of will impose upon the more moderate, the better-tempered and better-advised. The press—particularly the yellow press—is doing a noble work toward the correction of this evil; because already people are beginning to believe nothing they read in the newspapers, and, after a while, tiring of an endless, daily circuit of misinformation, they will begin to demand a journalism less interesting and more trustworthy; and, believe me, whenever they make this requisition—whenever they discriminate between the organ of fact and the organ of fancy—there shall not be wanting editors who will prefer to grow rich telling the truth than to die poor telling lies. We may not have reached yet the summit of human perfectibility, where we can hold our own with the merchants to Boston, but even among the members of my profession the self-sacrificing spirit lives apace, and the time will come when the worst of us will scorn the scoop that is no longer profitable!

You have been told, and many of you doubtless believe, that life is less secure in Kentucky than in China, or even in Chicago, and, but a little while ago a Kentucky mother was represented as thanking the One Above that her boy was bravely fighting in the Philippines instead of having to face the perils of the deadly roof-tree at home. You have been told that justice cannot be had in our courts of law. You have been told that, because we have some surviving prejudice against bringing the black man and brother into the bosom of our families, we are his enemies and would take unfair advantage of his ignorance and poverty. None of these things are true. They are the figments of a bigotry that obstinately refuses to see both sides. There is an equal quantum of human nature in Kentucky and in Massachusetts. There are as many church bells in the Bluegrass country as in the Bay State country, and they send the same sweet notes to Heaven and

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Victor, Dec. 10.—Lucy Phillips, 22 years of age, who for some time past has been employed in a local dance hall, committed suicide this morning by taking about two ounces of carbolic acid. Her remains were found at 3 o'clock this morning in her room over Banks's saloon on South Fourth street. The remains were removed to Dona's morgue and Deputy Coroner Rowland has decided that no inquest will be held. Several months ago the woman, while in the city jail, attempted suicide by hanging herself. The jail guard got her in time, and her life was saved. At that time she said she was tired of her life. An effort is being made to locate her relatives, but failing in this her friends here will give her a respectable burial.

J. H. Hunt today purchased the residence of Charles Sharp at 410 South Fourth street. Mr. Hunt and family at once took possession of their new home. The residence is one of the handsomest in Victor.

The local lodge, A. O. U. W., has elected the following officers: P. M. W., J. J. Hart; M. W., Charles Kittner; foreman, J. F. Phelan; overseer, N. Boyle; guide, Arthur Evans; recorder, J. E. Babcock; financier, J. J. Herold; receiver, R. H. Poage; outside watch, W. F. Converse; trustees, J. S. Fritz, R. T. Stewart and J. Wallace Collins.

Mrs. M. C. Colburn of Colorado Springs is spending a few days in Victor visiting her sons, Herbert and Ernest Colburn, of the Ajax mine.

I. W. Schilling of Colorado Springs is visiting friends in Victor.

Police Magistrate E. J. Kavanagh is in Denver on business.

J. H. Myers is home from a pleasant visit in Cripple Creek.

J. W. Jackson of Colorado Springs was a business visitor in Victor.

Samuel W. Hamilton of Deadwood, S. D., has arrived in the city and will reside here permanently.

ELKTON

Special to the Gazette.

Elkton, Dec. 10.—This is Yeomen week in the district. Grand Master of Ceremony Mason of Des Moines, Ia., has during the week been visiting the local lodges and, in this town, on Thursday evening the local Yeomen will have open house in his honor, beginning at 7 p. m. The public is invited. Tonight the local Yeomen went to Victor to attend the reception tendered by the Victor lodge.

The Ladies Aid society will give a bazaar at the church tomorrow, Wednesday, afternoon and evening. Refreshments will be served and a good time is promised for all who attend. The ladies have made elaborate preparations for the affair.

Congressman Doyle left today for his old home in Missouri to spend a couple of weeks.

Mrs. K. B. Polly was the guest of Miss White at Cripple Creek tonight. Miss White entertained at dinner.

ANDREWS WILL LAY THE STONE

CHANCELLOR OF UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA TO BE HERE

Cornerstone Laying of New Science Building Will Take Place March 4 Next.

The faculty and trustees of Colorado college are preparing for the laying of the cornerstone of the new science building. The date has been finally decided on. It will be March 4.

It is intended to make this quite an event and the whole day will be devoted to it. The main exercises will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the stone will be laid and the program for this feature will be carried out. Following this, probably from 4 to 6 in the afternoon, it is proposed to hold a public reception somewhere on the campus. Very likely at the president's house. In the evening, at 8 o'clock Chancellor Benjamin Andrews of the University of Nebraska will deliver the address of the day. Chancellor Andrews is to lay the cornerstone in the afternoon.

COMMITTEE TO SECURE GRAND ARMY CONVENTION

By Associated Press.

Denver, Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the chamber of commerce of this city today, Charles F. Wilson, president of that body and Major U. S. Hollister were appointed a committee to meet with the executive committee of the Grand Army of the Republic in Chicago and endeavor to secure the next convention of the Grand Army for Denver. Messrs. Wilson and Hollister left for Chicago tonight.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The transport Egbert, which is carrying freight and passengers from Seattle to the Philippines, arrived at Nagasaki today, on her way to Manila. She will be utilized in bringing short term soldiers to the United States.

DAY OF PRAYER

COLLEGES OF THE LAND WILL OBSERVE JANUARY 30.

Annual Prayer Service for Colleges Rev. P. T. Bayley of Denver to Speak Here.

The annual day of prayer for colleges comes this year on January 30 and, as has been the custom for many years, the day will be observed at Colorado college.

Classes will be dismissed for the day and all college work will be stopped, in order that students and professors may unite in the services that are to be held. The main public service will occur at 10 o'clock in Perkins hall and Dr. Frank T. Bayley of Denver will preach the sermon. Preceding this service there will be a college prayer meeting and prayer meetings held by the different classes. In the evening a joint Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. meeting will be held.

25 cents to Cripple Creek by the Colorado Midland railway.

SPRINGS MEN WILL DEVELOP SAN JUAN

People of Ouray Yesterday Voted to Give Them Electric Railway Franchise—Will Start at Once.

By a vote of 108 to 8 the town of Ouray yesterday decided to grant a franchise to the San Juan Railway and Electric company, which is composed principally of Colorado Springs capitalists. Word of the result of the vote was received in this city last evening. The directors of the company are G. A. Taff, A. S. Munson, J. A. Barclay and S. T. Hamilton, all of Colorado Springs. Some eastern capital is invested in the enterprise.

The company will build a power house in Ouray and light the town. The corporation owns 4,000 acres of rich coal fields 17 miles from Ouray and will build an electric railway from the town to the coal fields. The line will traverse the streets of Ouray and will handle passenger traffic throughout its entire length. The company will haul coal from its mines to the town and will furnish the coal to consumers there at one-half the present price.

The company will also furnish power to the mines of the San Juan district.

ALDERMEN SAW THE QUARRIES

Made Careful Inspection of the Kerr Rock—Visited Pueblo's Federal Building.

Five aldermen, two architects, the city building inspector, the proprietor of the stone quarries at Kerr, Colo., and a representative of the Gazette returned yesterday afternoon from a visit to the Kerr quarries and to Pueblo, where they went on a tour of inspection of building stone with a view to its possible use in the new city hall for Colorado Springs. The personnel of the party which left Colorado Springs on the midnight Rio Grande train on Monday was: Messrs. W. H. McIntyre, E. R. Clark, J. C. St. John, A. L. Patton, Francis Capell, E. G. Coray, T. MacLaren, T. P. Barber, J. G. Kerr and E. F. Murray. Mr. Kerr was the host of the occasion.

The result of the trip was highly satisfactory to the aldermen and the others upon whom rests the responsibility of selecting the material for the exterior of the new city hall. The weather was favorable for their work and they were shown the fullest details possible regarding the object of their trip.

The party made a careful inspection of the stone that is being quarried by Mr. Kerr and his associates in the Kerr quarries. The rock is a white lava rock, distinct from the Colopaxi stone, but the same that is now being used in the El Paso county court house erection. The stone is a beautiful white color when taken out and the architects pronounced it a desirable building stone providing it retains its color, about which there has been some doubt in the past. The owners of the quarries express no fears on this ground, however, stating that the rock is as durable in this respect as any light-colored rock that can be found anywhere. The El Paso county court house is the only large building now being made of the rock but a very good trade has been worked up by the owners, and it will doubtless be much larger in the future.

Work on the court house was delayed because of the inability of the quarries to turn out their product sufficiently fast to keep the stone men busy. The quarrying apparatus that was for several years in Red Rock canon above Colorado City, has been purchased and installed, however, and there will be no further trouble on this account.

Returning from the quarries to Colorado Springs the party stopped over, Messrs. Coray and MacLaren stopping at Florence to see a building constructed several years ago of this stone, the rest of the party stopping at Pueblo to see the federal building there.

The Pueblo federal building is made of brick and Bedford Indian stone, which is regarded by stone men and architects generally as the best building stone in the United States. The point made by Mr. Kerr in the inspection of this building was that any stone in the world would show some discoloration, regardless of its quality or the evenness of its color when selected for use. The stone in the federal building shows some discoloration.

The councilmen are still undecided as to the exterior finishing of the building.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF UNION REPUBLICAN CLUB

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Dec. 10.—At the December meeting of the Union club in this city tonight the rules for the government of Colorado Republicans, which were drawn by a special committee appointed by the club at its last meeting, and which were printed in the Gazette a few days ago, were adopted and they will be offered as suggestions from the Union club to the special committee appointed by Chairman Ford to draft new rules for the party's government. When they were brought before the club tonight E. S. Dunlavy objected to that clause which prevents a federal officeholder from holding the chairmanship of a party committee. His objection brought on a spirited discussion, but the clause was adopted with but two dissenting votes. Those who supported the clause gave as one of their reasons that it was President Roosevelt's wish that no federal office holder should hold a position of prominence in local political organizations and that in adopting the rule the club was only following out the wish of the president.

The committee appointed at the last meeting to investigate the charges brought against E. H. Rollins, charging him with having voted the Democratic ticket at the November election, reported that the evidence submitted did not sustain the charge. The report was adopted and the charge was withdrawn.

A message was directed to be sent to President Roosevelt expressing thanks to him for that portion of his recent message favoring irrigation for the arid lands of the west. A note was read from Mrs. McKinley expressing her gratitude for the sympathy expressed towards her by the club at its last meeting.

The committee appointed to investigate the plans for the erection of a club house, reported the following plan, which was adopted. One thousand shares of stock at $25 a share are to be sold. The first payment of $2.50 to be made when the share is bought, and the others at $1 per month, to be made until the $25 is paid. The $25,000 thus raised will be used for the erection or purchasing of a club house. It is the intention to induce Republicans from all over the state to purchase shares, and the idea is to erect a Colorado Republican home in Denver where all meetings of the party can be held and where members of the party from over the state can stop when in the city.

The January meeting of the club will be in the form of a dinner during which President Roosevelt's plans for irrigating the west will be discussed.

COLORADO MEN INTERESTED IN TRANSALASKAN RAILROAD

Special to the Gazette.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—A very important measure was introduced in the senate on Monday by Senator Teller and in the house today by Congressman Sibley of Pennsylvania, granting to the Transalaskan Railroad company a right of way and land from a point in Cook's inlet to Bering straits. The road will pass through the productive part of Alaska and open up a vast territory rich in agriculture.

Much interest is being taken here in the enterprise and it is believed the bill will pass and become a law. The original promoters are Denver men, who have organized a company under the laws of the state of Washington, and will have headquarters at Seattle. The president is J. J. Frey, formerly general manager of the Santa Fe system. A. L. New of Denver, is vice president; Stephen L. Selden of Denver, general counsel, and F. S. Granger, general manager. These gentlemen have associated with them eastern and western capitalists who will provide the funds necessary for the construction and equipment of the road.

It is understood that many other Colorado capitalists are interested in the enterprise.

MINERVA SOCIETY TO ENTERTAIN TONIGHT

The Minerva Literary society of Colorado college tonight celebrates its tenth birthday. The young ladies of the society have invited their friends to enjoy the evening with them.

Owing to the continued illness of Mr. Victor Clemenge, the operetta, which was to form the first part of the evening's program, has been indefinitely postponed. The dinner will be given this evening, however. Guests are requested to be present at Ticknor hall at 8:30 tonight.

Ladies', misses' and children's felt slippers, the 40 and 50c quality, at 39c, at Herling's shoe store.

FLORENCE

Special to the Gazette.

Florence, Dec. 10.—John Jacobs, mayor of this place, has sent in his resignation. He is manager of the Standard Reduction works of Colorado City and gives as his reason the inability to faithfully carry out his duties here.

During the last three days, nearly $75,000 have been distributed by paymaster G. R. Hooker, for the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., to its employes in the coal camps in the outlying districts. The amount distributed was not nearly as large as was last month's on account of so many idle days caused by a lack of railroad cars.

L. G. Moats, a member of the Colorado Springs league team has signed with the Florence Eagles baseball club for 1902. He is expected to arrive here in a few days.

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Vick Roy Has Resigned as Secretary of the Republican Central Committee

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Denver Dec 11—1901 Vick Roy assistant postmaster of the Denver postoffice who has held the position of secretary of the Republican County Central Committee for a number of years announced his resignation from the latter position today. When seen by your correspondent today Mr Vick said "Yes I have resigned from the hands of the chairman. I think that he absolutely refused to talk.

The State Central committee will be called together to select the committee on rules named some time ago by the chairman Ford. The committee will make its report on new rules for the government of the party. At that meeting the action of Mr Ford will be taken up and a new chairman elected. Upon the adoption of the new rules the county committee will meet and take any action necessary. At that meeting a new chairman and a new secretary will be elected.

The grand jury completed its grand jury report to Governor Orman today. It shows that at the end of the fiscal year November 30 1901 there stood in hand $1,384.[illegible]

The following members of the state board of assessors who were connected with the Schlidt case of the assessment roll, together with Attorney General Post and Secretary A J Gray have been notified to appear for the supreme court next Monday morning at which time the contempt case will be disposed of. S H Alston Anaconda; M J Lynch Telluride; George N Lesight Lake City; A Webber Boulder; A J Hogan Pitkin; J H Stevens Weld; J O Pree Elbert; A M Thomas Custer; C P Link Park; W Wilson Hinsdale.

There is considerable speculation as to what the court will do. A number of the men who were on the board when the assessment rolls were made did not were not re elected.

The state board of land commissioners will be probably the central position of the application for pardon of George N Anderson and David Davis the two men who were sent to the penitentiary last February for being connected with the assault upon a Santa Fe operator at Sedalia during the strike of the operators last winter. This action is to be taken because of the fact that a number of the parties connected with the assault have recently been given jail sentences while these men were sent to the penitentiary.

During a fire in the Twelfth street this morning Mrs A Bates narrowly escaped being burned to death and it was by the most heroic efforts of her husband that she was saved. While busy in her home in the morning noticed she had partially upset a box of matches and set fire to them. They immediately ignited and the flames caught her clothing. Her screams brought her husband who, after hard work, succeeded in subduing the fire.

The following persons have passed examination before the state board of pharmacy and are now registered pharmacists in Colorado Springs: Arthur W Miller and Guy L Richardson.

After concluding a week in the West Side court this morning during the trial of which it was brought out very pointedly that gambling exists in Denver Judge Johnson said "I want it distinctly understood that gambling is going to be stopped in Denver. It is going to stop and this court is going to see that it is going to stop."

It is expected that the Judge Johnson's special grand jury is at present [illegible]

KATIE WON AGAIN.

A Utah Woman's Mainagem.

"The first misunderstanding with Katie and I ever had was on account of coffee. She would not give it to me because she was sure it was the cause of my nervousness and sick spells so I regularly crept into my mother's house on the way from school (I am a school teacher you see) and she secretly put down a good strong cup of coffee each day.

"One of my sleepless nights I lay wondering what ailed me and how long my money would last if I got sick suddenly. I went to school the next day as I had often done before with nerves very tremulous and a distressing headache creeping over every cubic inch of my brain.

"When I reach the dinner table at night, shaved and in my right mind, but very tired, I gave a little start of surprise and delight followed instantly with a feeling of shame.

"Had my sharp tongued mild eyed little wife discovered the extent of my recent perfidy? Did she know I had been taking coffee each day contrary to agreement? Behold my little in my own beautiful silver Nut Brown cup smoked and fairly sailed the beverage, inviting delicious liquid. I hastened to pour in a generous supply of cream with the usual ratio of sugar. Then I sipped the treasure with delight.

"It tasted a good deal better than usual, seemed to me, but not overmuch. When my cup was half empty I began to wonder if it would be penitential to steal a glance at the little woman. She had her head forward in her arms and I saw the curl of her lips.

"All at once I saw it. Now Katie I said to myself, you don't mean to tell me that is Postum. Her pretty little laugh rang out clear and she asked the light of her napkin. Don't you think I'm the right sort of a thing to be married to?

"I recall with the experience fresh in my mind, Dear reader say coffee to my wife. I am saved in time to night. I then and there burned the guardian angel out of my coffee cup for keeps.

"My health and spirits have been gain for steadily until now I sleep like a babe and eat like a wolf. I will take a man who knows. Sweet is going to agree with him."

"It was a happy day for me, and I stand for my better half when I say the real cause of her drinking was discovered and I only ask that wives take its place with us on our table. I have been saved from a spoiled nervous disposition, Dyspepsia, Harrington prostration, the use of which ruined one can ever tell. Yours Hour Robinson Utah."

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Final Entries in Land Office—Steel Works Preparing for Inspection.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Pueblo Dec 10—Pueblo was visited today by a party of prominent citizens from Colorado Springs for the purpose of examining and inspecting the opera house and the federal building to see if they might not add some points to be incorporated in the new city hall which is to be built in the Springs in the near future at a cost of $150,000. They left this afternoon after their tour of inspection on the 2 o'clock train of the Atchison Grand railroad. In the party were Aldermen J C St John, F B Stark, A P Patton, City Clerk Cunel, W H McIntyre Architect T P Pistono, H L McLaren and J G Kerr and Building Inspector L S Corey. Before coming to Pueblo this morning they visited the quarries at Red Rock. The party was accompanied by Edward J McKay of the Colorado Springs Gazette.

Yesterday the doors of the Hotel Maine were thrown open to the public and this evening a dinner was given in commemoration of the event. Everything was as it should be. The natural wood finish throughout looked fine and looked set off as it was by the handsome new furniture. Miller & Vaughn Clark Wagner made everyone at home and Gosh's orchestra furnished music while the guests to the extent of about 50 partook of the many good things that were set before them by the colored waiters. The Hotel Maine has a future.

Final entry was made today on A and B Stats and Strip, Hill Nellie, L and M and Lulu mining claims in the Cripple Creek district by C J Mullen Geo M Dames A Kipple E G Fee H F Schreiber S H Randell and Fred Page, Jr of Colorado Springs, also on the Little Joe lode in the same district by George F Cope and Joseph Eaton of Denver and Minnie Leonard of Cripple Creek. Mineral application was made on Lucky Placer claim by the Walsen Mining and Milling company of Canon City by their attorney, Charles E Waldo.

The trial of Lawrence Hix the negro charged with the murder of Mrs Lizzie Allen and William White began in division B of the district court this morning. It will take some time tomorrow to finish securing a jury.

Rio Grande superintendent J J Burns left this morning for Salida where he will meet Manager Herbert of that system who is on route back to Denver from an inspecting trip as far west as Ogden. He is traveling in his special car and will probably reach here some time tonight.

A special car with a body of Western Union telegraph officials on board reached here today from the west on the Rio Grande No [illegible] and spent over until 2 o'clock this afternoon when they proceeded north.

The mill at the steel works is now working on soft billets. Before the end of the week they will be rolling 80 pound rails for the Union Pacific, 70 pound steel for the D & R G and the same weight rails for the Missouri Pacific. There are enough orders filed to keep the mill going steadily day and night for an indefinite period. In anticipation of the visits of Messrs Gates and Lambert accompanied by other officials of the C F and I Co the order has gone forth to every department to have things fitted up for a thorough inspection and put down from Denver tomorrow.

The case of the state against Pueblo county brought to recover the interest on delinquent taxes for the last 25 years was set for trial in division A of the district court. The court however was occupied with the hearing of the case of Through versus the Santa Fe P R Co and the case had to be postponed. Special Counsel D B Carey who represents the attorney general's office in the case, was present when court opened as was also Attorney McAllister for Pueblo county.

President Willisford Dye of the Business Men's association received a telegram this morning from President J A Kebler of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company in which that gentleman stated that the officials of the company upon the occasion of their tour of inspection to the Pueblo plants would be unable to accept the offer of a banquet and reception which the association had contemplated giving them.

In response to a petition signed by the county commissioners, Judge Coulter this morning issued an order for the release of Joseph Sowers from the state hospital.

SCOTCH BARK WRECKED

By Associated Press

Marion Va Dec 10—The Norwegian bark Scotland, Captain Mister Jamison, sailed by Clark Brothers of Spurwink, Scotland bound from Santa Fe to Mexico to Portland, Me, went ashore at the mouth of Gray's harbor. The crew of 14 abandoned the ship and the Captain's son, which was capsized in attempting to reach the vessel and seven drowned. The other four reached shore safely after being out for 7 hours. One man died from exposure. The following are the dead:

Joseph White
H White
R Davis
J Price
H Dexter
Stanley Sears
Carl Nelson

The crew made their way by land to Oxford where they took a train and brought the news to Aberdeen. One of the seamen, P Peterson, is nearly dead from exposure and is in the hospital at Hoquiam. The report that the vessel drifted out and was towed back by a tug from Astoria.

Captain Jamison says he was off Columbia river November 7 but the gale slackened and he worked back to the Columbia by the 10th. He worked hard for two days to get a pilot but could not get him north and he was wrecked.

CONTRACT FOR FOUNDATION

This Will Be the First of the City Hall Awards---To Be Let Within 30 Days.

The first contract in the construction of the new city hall will be let probably soon after the end of the present month and it will be the contract for the foundation, for the erection of the building but two contracts will be let, one for the foundation and another for the superstructure or the work.

The contract for the foundation will be let as soon as the council decides upon the material which is to form the exterior finish of the building that is to go upon it. This will have some bearing on the width of the foundation that will be required and for this reason the contract cannot be let at the present time.

As soon as the foundation is completed another will be let covering the contract for the work. Ninety days will undoubtedly see the building assume a definite shape.

He Walked Off a Car and the Doctor Came

Peters S. Jones walked off a car at the top of the hill on the west side at about 8:05 last night, and a moment later he was being carried into the West Side drug store in order that his injuries might be looked after.

Jones says he is not a drinking man and does not know how it happened that he got hurt, but the conductor of the car states that the man walked off the rear platform while the car was going at full speed and despite warnings to wait until the bell cord was pulled.

Jones evidently fell flat on the left side of his face for that side was worst cut up. He had so many skin bruises that his face was covered with blood. He had several cuts on the other side of his face too, and there was a nasty cut under the chin, about an inch deep. Dr. Madden was called and washed the wounds and later Dr. Estill, the Suburban company's physician, was called and dressed the injuries. The injuries, so far as could be discovered, were all bruises and cuts, but Jones said he had lost his recollection and it may be that he received a blow that stunned his senses.

When the doctors and police officers talked to him, all he could recollect was that his name was Jones. He did not know where he lived or where he had been in Colorado City or not and could not say whether Colorado City, Colorado Springs or some other town was his home. He knew he was not married. He did not know whether he had been married. The clearness of his mind on some points and his apparent loss of memory on others led the police to believe that he was not as sober when he got onto the car as he made out to be. The fall sobered him up, however. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

It was finally learned that the man lives in Florissant and that he is a prospector.

COMING LECTURES AT THE COLLEGE

Scientific Society Meets on Friday Afternoon at 4:15.

DR. ELY SPEAKS ON TUESDAY

The Great Economist Will Deliver One of His Lectures Here—The University Extension Lecture Course Will Be Opened On Saturday.

The Colorado College Scientific Society has prepared a very attractive program of lectures for the next few weeks. The university extension lecture course opens next Saturday night with a highly interesting lecture by Prof. Florian Cajori. Dr. Richard T. Ely, the famous economist, has been secured for a lecture next Tuesday night.

On Friday afternoon of this week the regular meeting of the Colorado College Scientific Society will be held in Perkins art room. The meeting will begin at 4:15 and will be free to the public. The early part of the evening will be devoted to a discussion of Prof. Ahlers' last paper on "The Animal in Man." This paper is to be brought up again by special request. The paper for the afternoon will be given by Mr. Frederic G. Hastings on the subject, "The German Reformation."

University Extension.

On Saturday evening, December 14, Professor Florian Cajori will open the university extension lecture course of Colorado college with a lecture on "Modern Mysticism." The lecture will be given in the auditorium of Perkins hall and is free to all. Professor Cajori will discuss the so-called weather prophets and charlatans, palmists and mediums; then the relation of theosophy, Dowieism and Christian science to mysticism will be considered.

The question of man's development or degeneracy will be treated from the standpoint of evolution. Lastly, Professor Cajori will discuss mysticism as a problem in modern education.

It will undoubtedly be a matter of great interest to many to hear this eminent American mathematician and physicist discuss this topic.

Professor Parsons will begin his lecture on January 7, 1902. The program of his course of five lectures is as follows: January 7 and 11, two lectures on "The Isle of Wonder;" March 11 and 15, two lectures on "A Swiss University Town;" April 8 and 15, two lectures on "Oxford." All these lectures will be given in Perkins Fine Arts hall and will be illustrated with the stereopticon. Professor Parsons has taken much pains during his trip in Europe to collect the best lantern slides obtainable, and his lectures promise to be of more than usual interest.

Since his lecture before the Scientific Society on "The Animal in Man: A Phase of Modern Literature," Professor Ahlers has determined to change the plan of his lecture course as previously announced. Instead of lecturing on the modern writers, Zola, Ibsen, Tolstoy, Hauptmann and Sudermann, he will read papers on the three great German classics—Lessing, Goethe and Schiller.

The subjects of his papers are as follows: January 21, "Lessing and the Reform of the German Drama;" January 28, "The Structure of a Model Tragedy, Lessing's Emilia Galotti;" February 11, "Schiller: His Early Dramas and Theory;" February 25, "Schiller: His Later Works;" April 8, "Goethe's Faust, Part I;" April 22, "Goethe's Faust, Part II."

Besides the lectures scheduled above the college will announce from time to time lectures by other professors of Colorado college and other institutions. It is the intention of the university extension lecture committee to make this course as instructive and interesting as possible and to spare no pains in securing eminent speakers.

America's Great Economist.

Professor Richard T. Ely, who is to lecture in Perkins hall on Tuesday next, has done more to bring the results of economic investigations within the reach of the masses than any other economist in the United States. He is noted for his clear, simple style, and succeeds in making some of the most difficult economic problems intelligible to the average reader. His published works are numbered by the score and are, perhaps, far more widely read than any other economist occupying a university chair. He has written on many phases of economic work, from socialism and labor problems to monopolies and trusts. His book on the last named subject has been praised as the best and most scholarly treatment of this much mooted question. His lecture on "Monopolies and the Twentieth Century City."

OIL ENTHUSIASTS AT PORTLAND WELL

Colorado City oil enthusiasts are watching developments at the Portland well very closely. Almost every day some Colorado City business man goes to Florence to catch the news.

The Portland people have now bored into the earth one hundred and twenty feet and are putting down the well, because they feel sure they will strike oil. Certainly the surface indications are good under the site of the mill at the Portland, while strike oil there and the Colorado City money will pour into wells and the city will become an oil excitement which will compare favorably with the Beaumont, Tex., excitement. There are many people in this city who have long believed that Colorado City was above a big oil field and prospecting several years ago seems to justify this belief. Eight years ago the Colorado City Oil company opened up a gusher shaft and reached a flame of 40 feet in height but the work of sinking deeper to discover oil was not carried out.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

NEW BOXES—The new fire alarm boxes are being installed by Ex-Fire Chief Foster, of Denver, as fast as practicable with the work.

SAD NEWS—Mrs. Emma D. Kinney received the sad intelligence that her sister died in Iowa last Saturday. Mrs. Kinney was not able to go east to the funeral.

CLERKS MEET—The Retail Clerks met at the W. C. T. U. hall last night. A large number of new members were taken in and these conclude a longer roll, it being closed last night.

TEN TAKEN IN—The Foresters took in ten members at their meeting Monday night. Twelve applications for membership were received. The order is growing rapidly and is one of the largest in the city.

HOLIDAY TEA—The Woman's guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd will give a tea this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Young, 1322 Colorado avenue, in West Colorado Springs.

COLUMBIA LOAN—Mr. H. P. Spencer, president of the Columbia Loan company was down from Denver yesterday looking over the city in the interests of his company. He will stop here several days.

RUMMAGE SALE—The ladies of the Methodist church are arranging to hold a rummage sale on December 18 at 513 Colorado avenue. Articles of all kinds will be on the bargain counter those days.

MRS. CASADAY WANTS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Because her husband is said to have struck her with his fist on Monday, Mrs. Jennie Casaday sought a lawyer and yesterday began a divorce suit against the erring spouse, David. Mrs. Casaday also seeks possession of their child, Ellis, aged 17 months, and asks for $500 alimony.

The cause of action, as stated in the complaint filed in the district court, is cruelty. The plaintiff says her husband has repeatedly called her unseemly names and that the culmination of his alleged cruelty occurred on Monday, when he struck her and called her to the floor during a dispute at their home.

TODAY'S SUBJECT "THE HOME AND THE SCHOOL"

Dr. E. G. Lancaster of Colorado college, will give another of his interesting talks on child study at the Ferris school today. Last week's lecture was well attended and another good attendance is expected today. The lecture begins at 2:30 o'clock.

The subject of this afternoon's talk is "The Home and the School."

How to Prevent Croup.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of the disease is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the rough cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. That remedy is used in this way by many thousands of mothers, and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon, and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

FOOT WAS CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR MACHINERY

G. A. Gilles, a lineman in the employ of the Postal Telegraph company, had the misfortune to get his foot caught in the cog wheels of the elevator machinery in the postoffice building yesterday morning and as a result several bones in the foot were broken. Gilles accidentally put his left foot a few inches behind him while he was working in the elevator shaft and the member got caught in the cogs of the machinery. His foot was badly mashed and he suffered intense pain. Dr. Estill attended to him and he was removed to his home. It is thought that he may lose the foot.

DENVER AND THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Mrs. J. H. Robinson returned yesterday from Denver where he went to attend a meeting called for the purpose of discussing the advisability of bringing the National G. A. R. convention to that city this year.

The Denver people seem to be a little afraid that the big Grand Army encampment will interfere with the Festival of Mountain and Plain. The sum of $50,000 which it will be necessary to raise for the entertainment of the old soldiers is another item which, taken in connection with the festival funds, causes Denver to hesitate. Denver will probably send a delegation to request the encampment and Mayor Robinson will help the capital city to get it, if she wants it. Denver wants it and the doubts about the advisability of getting it are not thought to be very great.

"Hansel and Gretel" Made a Big Hit

Local talent has seldom appeared to more advantage in this city than last evening at the Antlers ball room. Three scenes from Hansel and Gretel" were sung, and the trivial little "Cups and Saucers" which has a pleasant ripple of humor throughout, and gave Miss Higgins, whose voice has long been admired in this city, and Mr. Crampton opportunity to sing two or three pretty songs and to create some subdued laughter.

"Hansel and Gretel" was the feature of the evening, however, and was presented with the following cast:

Hansel ..... Mrs. Crampton
Gretel ..... Miss Anna Roberts
Sandman ..... Miss Laura Sandstedt
Dewman ..... Miss Evelyn Carrington
The Mother ..... Mrs. A. H. Garrison
The Father ..... George Crampton

This charming fairy opera of Humperdinck's contains some very dainty and striking music, and although the first scene had been given before in the city, the improvement over the first production, and the introduction of two other scenes and orchestral support, made last evening's production practically a fresh one. The varying moods of the two children in the first scene were much more subtly done than last year. The work of Mrs. Crampton and Miss Roberts in this scene was admirably balanced, the shades of emotion being portrayed with intelligence; and their voices were well suited to each other. Miss Roberts, who had not been heard before in this kind of work, took her part with an ease and grace which was delightful, and her voice of much clearness and power, gives much promise for her future. Colorado Springs has produced more than one singer, and if Miss Roberts receives the right training, she will be heard of far beyond the limits of this city.

Greater artistic demands were made on no one in the opera than on Mrs. Garrison, when she was called upon to enter, and abruptly change the buoyant humor of the dancing children to fright, and the tones of the opera from mirth to the disappointment which had come from her unsuccessful visit to the market. When she sang the part, a year ago she received much commendation for her work, which was sympathetic and careful, but her conception of the part was much broader last evening and more finished because the care which was really more intelligent than before, was less obvious. Her voice was under good control and met the requirements of the different emotions with great satisfaction.

The good changes instantly with the entrance of the father, the music, stirring and joyful, gives color at once to the action, and strength to the singing. The breadth of feeling to be exhibited here gives a great advantage and an opportunity for acting of a very vital kind; but it would have been even more rounded out if the harmonies, which naturally belong to such a scene in opera, could have been supplied by the orchestra. The Antlers orchestra played much of the music, but during the first scene, the piano was the only sustaining force, for some reason or other. In the second scene, and the intermezzo the orchestra contributed very good work, and the setting of the opera also helped to round it out. The scenery was passable, and the costumes appropriate. Mr. Crampton, especially, in simple peasant clothes, with loose jacket, tall round hat and full beard, was particularly effective.

The last two scenes given treated the audience again to the delightful work of Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Crampton won much favor as well. They also introduced the work of Misses Sandstedt and Carrington who assumed the parts of Sandman and Dewman very pleasingly, and each manifested much feeling and sweetness in her singing. The reunion at the end was carried through with spirit, and brought forth much applause from an audience which, it is needless to say, was the large and discriminating one which such an event would command.

Mr. Tillitson's Funeral Today

The death of Charles E. Tillitson, which occurred yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock at his home in Manitou, while it was hardly unexpected, caused profound sorrow among his friends in Colorado Springs and Manitou. He was known by almost everybody in Manitou, and his death was felt throughout the entire town as the loss of a particular personal friend. He resided in Manitou for the past 14 years, and in both his business and social relations, he found only friends. A wife and three children, Emma, Raymond and Edward, are left to mourn him.

Mr. Tillitson had been a sufferer from chronic cancer of the stomach for several years, but not until recently did his illness assume a serious turn. About three weeks ago he became worse and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Denver to be operated upon, somewhat against the advice of his physician, but as a last resort to save his life. He soon became worse, and realizing that he had not many days to live, he made his own funeral arrangement. He was taken back to his home last Sunday, and spoke to a number of his friends, bidding them farewell. Death came yesterday morning at 10:25.

The funeral will be in charge of the local lodge, Knights of Pythias, of which Mr. Tillitson was a member. Services will take place at the Tillitson home at 1 o'clock today and at 2 o'clock a train will bear the remains to Colorado Springs. Interment will be at Evergreen.

Mr. Tillitson conducted a successful real estate business in Manitou. Before he went to Denver the business was leased to some Manitou people.

RECOVERING FROM NERVOUS SHOCK

Mrs. Albert Becker is improving considerably, much to the delight of her relatives and friends. She has recovered the entire use of her arm and one side of her body, and her general health is much better. The rest and the quiet of home life are slowly but surely restoring her. While she cannot yet talk with her accustomed freedom, she is gradually recovering her power of speech.

THE FEDERAL BUILDING FOR COLORADO SPRINGS.

THE PROPOSITION to erect a federal building in Colorado Springs is no new project. It was inaugurated, if we mistake not, by Mr. B. W. Steele, then editor of the Gazette, about 12 years ago. All that can be said in its favor has been said many times, and all that can be added now is that as the years go on the need of the building and the deserts of the city in that respect grow more evident.

The bill introduced in the senate on Monday by Mr. Teller makes an appropriation of $250,000 for this purpose. This amount is approximately the cost of the federal building in Pueblo, and it would give to Colorado Springs a structure that would be an ornament to the city and one in keeping with its commercial and general importance.

The present prospects for success of this bill are largely due to the strong and persistent efforts directed towards this end in the past, and at the present time there should be no abatement of effort. Many of the members of congress in former days, who were friendly to us are no longer at the capitol, and there are doubtless others who are not aware of our circumstances and claims to consideration. A strong effort should be made to exercise whatever influence our citizens possess in behalf of this measure, and there is good reason to believe that with such an effort the end of our long struggle is fairly in sight.

THE PRESIDENT, THE POLITICIANS AND PEOPLE.

THE POLITICIANS who were afraid of Theodore Roosevelt two years ago have already had the opportunity to see how well founded was their distrust of the president.

They did not like him because he was a civil service reformer; because he had an independent way of doing what he thought was right without regard to "influence;" because he believed that honesty and ability should be as much required in public office as in private affairs; because he had a conscience in working order that directed his acts in his public as well as in his private affairs.

They did not want that kind of a man to be president. And so they thought they saw a very shrewd way of getting him out of the way of political preferment by side-tracking him into the position of vice president. They argued that for several generations past the vice presidency has been the tomb of political ambitions and they thought if they could get him in there once, he would be out of the way forever. So the political manipulators, and the "pie-eaters" and the lobbyists presented the people at large with the wonderful idea that Theodore Roosevelt was the one man above all others who could insure McKinley's election by adding strength to the ticket. The people thought so, too, and the matter was presented to Governor Roosevelt in such shape that he could not refuse as a patriotic American and a good Republican to do what his country and his party asked of him.

Before the death of President McKinley the Gazette expressed very definitely its opinion that the vice presidency could not smother Theodore Roosevelt, and we still believe that if McKinley had lived Mr. Roosevelt would have been the next Republican nominee and the next president.

The estimate that the politicians formed of Roosevelt as governor is more than justified by his acts as president. He is absolutely fearless, he is unfalteringly conscientious, he has a high standard of public morality for himself and for others, and he proposes, so far as it is possible for his authority and his influence to accomplish it, that the government of the United States shall be run on straightforward business principles for the benefit of the people.

We now have as the chief executive of the nation a man who is "strictly business," in the best sense. Politics and personal ambition have been consigned to a back seat, except that the president undoubtedly believes that the best politics and the surest method of establishing his own fame is to strive only for the welfare of the nation and of the people.

It remains to be seen whether the people of the United States are upon the plane of intelligence and morals where they can appreciate and do justice to a man of the character and calibre of Theodore Roosevelt.

That a storm is about to break upon him which will surpass in fury anything of a like nature ever witnessed in our political history is entirely probable.

The elements that thought they had Roosevelt side-tracked are resourceful and powerful and well entrenched, and they will not give up their privileges without a struggle. Every spoilsman, every incompetent place hunter, every parasite, every politician whose "pull" is valuable to himself or to his friends will declare war openly or in secret upon the president, and the strain will be tremendous.

To withstand the attack the president will need all the force and energy of mind and of body with which he is so abundantly endowed. He will need the constant support of every congressman who believes in good government and clean government and honest government. He will need most of all the support of Americans in all sections and of all parties who believe that government is instituted first of all for the welfare of the people and the building up of the nation, and that the power and the resources of the government cannot be safely used with the object of promoting narrow party interests, of advancing personal ambitions or of providing soft places as a reward for personal or political services.

We have confidence enough in the American people, in their sense of justice and right, in their business common sense, and in their standards of morality to believe that they will rally to the support of the president and will sustain him in the position he assumes.

President Roosevelt does not appear at Washington as a light in the darkness; he is not a single honest man among thieves; he does not begin the work of reform in a stew of corruption and vice. The tone of official life in Washington is high, and it will compare favorably with that of any capital in the world, and the effectiveness of our civil service is also high.

Nevertheless the president has an opportunity to do much to make our government more nearly what it should be. He is an outspoken advocate of political decency, competency and faithfulness. He allows no one to mistake his purpose to put the nation and the people ahead of party, ahead of his personal ambitions, ahead of everything else.

That is what the policy of the president ought to be, and the people should sustain him in it.

THE CARNEGIE UNIVERSITY.

HUMAN knowledge has increased wonderfully in the past few years. We know something about a great many subjects of which our fathers never [illegible] nearly every subject that attracted their attention.

The invaluable resources of the printing press, supplemented by modern processes of photographic engraving, are at our disposal, and each student receives as a free gift all the condensed results of previous research and experiment.

The mass of knowledge that confronts the young student is appalling in its range as well as in its extent. The time is long past when a perfect encyclopedia of it was possible. It cannot be contained within any library.

The student must choose to be a specialist or a smatterer. Most students become both, well grounded in one or more subjects and with a superficial knowledge of as many others as come within the range of their tastes, their experiences or their opportunities.

The enormous increase in the things to be learned and the increasing difficulty of making any real additions to the sum of acquired knowledge tax the resources of the educator. The kindergarten disputes with the cradle for the infant, and the post-graduate course or the university extension drags the grandfather from his comfortable fireside chair.

Are we coming to the time when further progress will be impossible, for the reason that it will take the student all his life to assimilate the knowledge that already exists upon any given subject?

Apparently that is one of the things that Millionaire Andrew Carnegie proposes to find out. He is going to equip a school for college graduates, a sort of kindergarten where college professors and scientists and sophists in various departments may be impressed with their ignorance and taught to hustle in untrodden fields for untasted fruits. Gray-bearded freshmen are to be turned loose with a test tube, a microscope, or an electric battery and told to get as far as they can before Death catches them.

The result of this sort of study is expected to be something wonderful, and probably it will be. To most people, indeed, study is a preparation for life, and knowledge is an instrument to be used for a purpose. But for the student, knowledge is an instrument to get more knowledge, and all the knowledge he gets is made useful finally in one way or another for the human race. A scheme of education extending over seventy-five or a hundred years would doubtless find some students ready to undertake it systematically.

There is an opportunity for Carnegie university in this country. The national capital is a very proper location for it. It will accomplish much good, and will give this nation a standing in higher education and original research that it does not now possess. These benefits will be the more notable if, as will doubtless be the case, arrangements can be made by which students, who are long on brains and short on money can make use of its opportunities.

We cannot all of us go to Carnegie university, and in fact very few of us want to. But for people who like that sort of thing, it is very much what they like.

If anyone wants to go to school after he is 75, he ought to have the opportunity.

If anyone cannot satisfy his intellectual thirst from the varied and extensive supplies of present knowledge he ought to be permitted or even assisted to take a dip out of the unknown.

Mr. Carnegie's ten-million-dollar school for post-graduates is a noble idea, worthily executed.

THE BOOK OF THE SEASON.

MR. FRANK S. THAYER of Denver, whose artistic taste and enterprise deserve the credit for some of the handsomest Colorado publications heretofore issued, has surpassed all previous efforts in issuing an art portfolio entitled "La Grande Flora de Colorado de Montanas y Llanos."

In preparing this most beautiful reproduction of one of Colorado's most attractive natural charms, the publisher has aimed to produce as nearly true to nature as possible the Colorado flora of mountain and plain, and at the same time to give to lovers of art a collection of aquarelles that excel in beauty, conception and execution anything of the kind hitherto attempted. In this Mr. Thayer has achieved a remarkable success, and the collection is equally attractive to the scientific botanist and to the artist.

The series consists of 12 paintings of leading native wild flowers of this state, as painted from life in the season of 1900 by Mr. O. Acheltner of Denver. Each picture contains six or more specimens, gracefully and naturally grouped. Each blossom is reproduced in natural size, forming a group with the leaves, about 8 by 10 inches in size. Each subject is mounted on a daintily embossed oval mat of waterproofed buff enameled paper, made to order for the purpose; the whole making a picture 16x20 inches in size, the descriptive pages being on bond paper, which are attached to each mat, giving the botanical and popular titles, a verse from the classic flower poets, short description, etc., the title page on Imperial Japan vellum, and the whole in a handsome portfolio. In the collection will be found the state flower, the columbine; the wild rose, the sand lily, the fairy torch, the Rocky Mountain aster and other favorites, each true to nature in size, color and character.

We note, with especial pleasure Mr. Thayer's promise to furnish series two at some time in 1902 and hope that nothing will interfere to prevent the carrying out of this plan.

By the publication of such works as this Mr. Thayer is doing a real service to the state, both in promoting one of the fine arts among us, and also giving an important aid to our material interests.

The scene of the next rush for free homes is to be at the Fort Hall reservation in Idaho, and after that a Washington reservation called Quinault is to be opened. The ceded lands of the Fort Hall reservation include about 418,000 acres, of which 45,000 acres are susceptible of irrigation and cultivation. The date of the opening has not yet been announced.

The ratification by Nicaragua of the treaty with the United States removes another obstacle to canal construction. It begins to look very much as though the big ditch were to be dug in the near future.

WHEN TO MARRY.

Nearly all Our Self-Made Men Married on a Thousand Dollars a Year or Less.

"Why should lovers defer their marriage a day longer than the time when, as far as we mortals can discern the future, the prospect of a comfortable home is reasonably assured? It is useless to wait for the coming of affluent days. Their lives should be united, and each in his way should help to bring about the advent of easier times if they are ever to come. It is as foolish to wait for a larger income than is really required as it is for parents to slave and drudge that their children may enjoy a degree of affluence they [illegible] upon which the French nation has split. They are so frugal and thrifty people. It is interesting to know that heavy of the sweetest, artistic and costly products of France are made almost exclusively for foreign trade. Two-thirds of the best tableware of Limoges, for example, comes to the United States. A well-to-do French woman is likely to use a preparation of rice flour as a cosmetic, leaving the delicate perfumes and other toilet articles of Paris for her American and British sisters who are willing to spend more money for such things. But the rich father, unfortunately, conceives it to be his duty to leave his children richer than himself; if, on the other hand, he be a poor tiller of the soil, it is disgraceful not to educate his son to a trade or a profession so that the family name may have a higher place in the social scale. This deplorable ambition rises upon the family a burden almost too great to be borne, and parents deliberately restrict the number of their children. In large districts, particularly in northern France, families of more than two children are rare. Many of the young people seeing the hard lives their parents lead, defer their own marriage in order to better their fortunes, till at last even the desire to marry is extinguished. Parents and children of all lands may well heed the lesson in sociology that France is now teaching.

"Nearly all our self-made men, leaders in the professions and in business, married young and on very moderate incomes. Many assumed, without the slightest trepidation, the responsibility of supporting a wife on $1,000 a year or less. These men usually have very pronounced views on the inadequate knowledge of the value of money and how to take care of it possessed by the majority of young men and women. The views of these young persons as to the amount of income upon which they may prudently marry, vary, of course, according to the circumstances in which they have lived. Many an intelligent girl who works in New York kitchens has no doubt whatever that she and the steady, industrious fellow she intends to marry will have a comfortable home on $12 to $14 a week. A penniless German school teacher who came to Philadelphia when a young man, and who in his old age lives in New York on the rentals of apartment houses bought with $400,000 he earned slowly in manufacturing, ascertained the other day that $1,000 to $1,500 a year in New York would give to young married couples of refinement a comfortable home, books, music and amusements and even think they might need for the rational enjoyment of life. This gentleman has the German idea of thrift. There is scarcely any doubt that any man and wife, gifted with his ability to disburse dollars to the very best advantage, would be able to realize his idea of comfortable married life on a small income." (Cyrus C. Adams in Atlantic.

Snowdrift Forms in the Adirondacks.

On a good drift-making day the snow comes, not in the star-shaped flakes that look so pretty when portrayed on a page of the dictionary, but in small pellets. These pellets are in shape like tiny white footballs, usually, and, they come rolling and tumbling down wind as if they had been "kicked for fair" by the half-back gods of the gale. And yet wind they roll and tumble and bound, they find lodging places, and as the idler gazes he sees them pile up in a wall on the crest of the road cut. Higher and higher grows the pile, forming at first a vertical wall, but before this has risen three inches it is seen to overhang the gulch. Though round and easily rolled these pellets in the mass fit to each other as tiles would until the overhang is perhaps a fifth as great as the elevation of the wall, and then, marvelous and impossible as it would seem to the unaccustomed observer, a lip forms on the crest of the wall, and soon it begins to droop and hang down. Wider and longer it grows; farther and farther it droops, until its shape is precisely like the lip formed on a huge wave when it breaks on a shoal-water beach. Lips that are ten feet wide and hang down three feet clear of all, though but six or eight inches thick where they join the chin of the wall, are not uncommon. By what magic is it that these frozen, oblong pellets that go bounding along as merrily as football, form into such a shape as that? Of course, if the storm continues, a time usually comes when the lips break off, because of their growing weight. And then no new lip forms to replace the lost one. The snow merely drops over into the lee of the wall and gradually fills the cutting.

Another curious feature of these lips is seen when they do not fall. A thaw may come, often does come, and spread a glistening skin over the lip to hold it in.—From "When the Snow Falls in the Adirondacks," by John R. Spears, in the Christmas Scribner's.

The Passing of the Madonna in Art.

Those pious and wistfulness with the brush painted once and forever a Madonna which was lifted out of the realities by its sacred fervor. It was a mother and child, to be sure, but sublimated and ennobled by the intensity of devotion which produced it. All the gifts they possessed, all the sights common to their daily vision, all the thoughts of their exalted moments, and the attentive study of the sacred texts were concentrated on this spiritual rendition of a mother and child.

But the conception, whence came it? Surely it had a fireside or wayside origin. One of those devout ancestors of art walked abroad some morning and saw a mother caressing her baby under the twinkling sunlight of a Florentine garden. Another, by a northerly hearthside, watched, with parental emotion, the little child he loved lie sleeping in his mother's arms. Botticelli painted the child and mother of Italy, touched with a charm which had come to him as guerdon for light-heartedness and love of beauty for its own sake. Michael Angelo modeled a sterner Madonna whose face bespoke the profundity of his own insight. Raphael's conception was angelic in its spirituality. He saw far into the heaven of his faith, and lifted his type up to that exalted revelation. Rubens found his ideal at the threshold, and it keeps warm that homelier association.

As you go through the list it is plain that each master discovered a motive among his own surroundings, and those divine types of the Madonna we prize as the heirlooms of a world are, after all, only the everlasting childhood interpreted by genius. The wonder is that such devout passion ever abated; that what was so universal in appeal should have lost its power to stir and inspire. But with the relaxing grasp of the simple old faith in revelation the Madonna was effaced from among the painter's ideals. (From "American Portraiture of Children," by Harrison S. Morris, in the Christmas Scribner's.

MRS. GUTHRIE WAS IN JAIL

Because She Couldn't Pay a Police Court Fine---Freed Yesterday by Habeas Corpus.

Josie Gutherie, who was arrested two weeks ago charged with obstructing the public highway, was released from the county jail yesterday afternoon. A writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Cunningham, of the district court, and made returnable next Monday, was served upon Chief of Police Robbins in the afternoon, demanding that he show cause why the woman should not be further held in custody. Mrs. Gutherie owns a house on Cimarron street, near Sierra Madre, and also petitioned Judge Cunningham for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was granted and the case will be heard in court on Monday.

Mrs. Gutherie alleges that her house is built on the right of way of the Rio Grande Railroad company, with permission from that company. She also says that she was illegally arrested because the police neglected to notify her before her arrest on her alleged violation of the ordinance relating to the obstruction of a street.

Pappoose Company in Injunction Suit

Plaintiffs own the Lofty lode ...claim in the district and the ...company owns the E. B. ...which crosses through the Lofty ...at a depth of 500 feet. According to the complaint the Pappoose ...has a good title to the tunnel from the Squaw Mountain Tunnel, Gold Mining & Dredging company. It is alleged that at the time of the transfer of the title the plaintiffs had an agreement with the Squaw Mountain company by which the latter was given a right of way for the tunnel through the Lofty lode and in return the plaintiffs were to be allowed to use the tunnel in developing the claim.

It is alleged that the Pappoose company, which assumed the responsibility of the agreement at the time of the transfer, now refuses to permit the plaintiffs to use the tunnel. Furthermore, it is alleged, the Pappoose company has torn out the tracks and switches in that part of the tunnel which runs through the Lofty lode claim.

TWENTY-FIVE AND FORTY

These Are the Rates Made Yesterday by the Midland---Short Line Stands Pat.

Twenty-five cents to Cripple Creek. The Midland took the lead again yesterday in the rate war and cut the passenger rate to Cripple Creek to 25 cents each way and 40 cents for the round trip, the round trip tickets having to be used within the day. The new rates went into effect last night.

The Short Line officials have not yet decided whether or not they will meet the reduction, but may do so today. The Short Line is upon the popularity of the road to offset the latest cut made by its rival and continue the present rate of 30 cents each way and 50 cents for the round trip.

The rate war is only 10 days old, and there is no end in sight. Some railroad men say it is just in its infancy. At the Midland's rate for the round trip the fare is less than one-third of a cent a mile and as long as the low rate continues this road must run its trains at a loss, even though the traffic is heavy.

Travel over the Short Line has been so heavy at the 50-cent rate that the trains have been run at a profit. This could hardly be done at the 25-cent rate. It is not unlikely that the Short Line officials will hesitate for a day or two before deciding to meet the Midland's reduction. If they do travel promises heavy over the new road in spite of the Midland's cut. There will be no reduction in sight.

Monday afternoon the Midland reduced the freight rates on a number of commodities handled between this city and Cripple Creek and the Short Line immediately went its rivals one better and added all commodities to the list. Yesterday the Midland met the Short Line's cuts and no further changes were made in freight rates.

Both Cripple Creek and Colorado Springs are benefiting by the war. Thousands of people of this city have taken advantage of the cheap fares to visit the gold camp and many Cripple Creek residents are coming down here to make their Christmas purchases at the local stores. Cripple Creek is benefiting more extensively from the cut in freight rates.

Seeks Heavy Damages for a Lost Finger

William A. Derby values his little finger at $5,500.

Derby had the little finger of his left hand torn off by a nail on a Denver & Rio Grande freight car last June and yesterday brought suit against the railroad company for damages amounting to $5,500.

The complaint states that on last June 12 the plaintiff was unloading lumber from a car which was standing on a siding. A switching engine bore down on the car and Derby says the engine was going so fast that he feared there would be a collision and he would be pinioned under piles of lumber, as he was on the car at the time. He made a leap from the car just as the locomotive struck it.

In making the jump Derby grasped the car door with his left hand and his hand was caught on a nail. The little finger was torn off completely.

Derby alleges that the accident was due to the negligence of the railroad company. He seeks $5,500 damages, $500 for doctor bills and costs.

Mr. Hastings to Speak to Scientific Society

On Friday, December 13, the Colorado College Scientific society will meet again in the art gallery, Perkins hall, at 4:15 p. m. Instead of two papers as usual, there will be but one main essay, which will be presented by Mr. Frederic R. Hastings, on the subject "The Cardinal Idea of the Reformation." Preceding this paper, an opportunity will be afforded for discussion of the November paper by Professor Ahlers. Several who heard the latter were disappointed by the lack of discussion at the close of its reading, and it is understood that they will be ready to offer remarks. If this discussion, together with Mr. Hastings' paper, shall not sufficiently occupy the time, a brief account of certain recent astronomical discoveries at the Lick and Yerkes observatories, relating to the new star in Perseus, may be appended at the close of the meeting. The public is invited to attend.

Plans for Dedicating Helen Hunt School

At the meeting of the school board last night the report of the building committee that the new Helen Hunt school be accepted from the contractors was adopted. The temporary chairman of the board was instructed to appoint a committee to co-operate with Superintendent Dietrich, Miss Van Pelt, principal of the Helen Hunt school, and the Junior Order American Mechanics in arranging for the dedication of the new building.

The building will be dedicated some time early in January. The exercises will include a flag raising.

Superintendent Dietrich reported to the board that the average daily attendance at the schools is 4,270, the enrollment being 4,900. This average is very high.

Miss Elizabeth Mace, a teacher, was granted a leave of absence for the remainder of the school year.

In the absence of Chairman R. C. Thayer, Rev. M. D. Ormes presided over last night's meeting. Nothing was done regarding the school bond issue, which has been advertised. No bids have yet been received.

Dates Selected for Next Flower Show

The Horticultural society held its last meeting of the year last evening with a satisfactory attendance of the members. A nominating committee was elected to suggest officers to be elected at the annual meeting on Tuesday, January 21 next.

Much business of importance was transacted among which was the selection of the dates August 20 and 21 for the flower show of next year. The two-days' exhibition will be given with special features for each day, and from the interest and faithful work of the members it is expected that it will eclipse anything of the kind heretofore attempted in the city or state.

Mr. H. I. Bennett, who has been secretary of the society from its inception, being a charter member, has resigned on account of his removal from the city to work at the Logan mine in the Cripple Creek district. At a former meeting of the society it was decided that some expression be given Mr. Bennett for his untiring work in the interest of the society. This was done last evening by the selection of a beautiful Knights of Pythias chain and the passing of a vote of thanks. M. F. Horn was elected secretary of the society for the unexpired term, or until the annual meeting.

At the annual meeting in January the annual report of receipts and expenditures for the year, with list of subscribers and paid members will be presented and will be published in the daily papers.

ORE FROM THE GOLD KING

Little Gem Leasing Company Is Getting Into a Good Grade--Lessee Jones' Strike in Shallow Workings on the Pinnacle--Big Drainage Tunnel.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Dec. 10.—The Little Gem G. M. D. & L. company, operating the Gold King fraction of the Savage company on Gold hill, is getting into a good grade of ore in putting down a winze on the main shaft from the 300-foot level. The winze has been sunk to a depth of 12 feet and the ore body is widening out and showing a material increase in the matter of values. In some places the shoot gives pay streaks for a width of more than 12 feet, while in other parts it narrows down to three or four feet of pay ore. A good many samples have been taken of the ore streaks, and the average grade runs about $20 per ton. The narrow streak that will give pay shipping quantities is from three to four feet in width, containing a four to an eight-inch streak that runs considerably higher than the rest of the shoot. There is a good deal of sulphide showing in the blue quartz that makes up the streak. The lessees are going to deepen the winze and will at the same time extend the crosscut at the 400-foot level for a distance of 25 or 30 feet, in order to get under the ore at this depth. Regular shipments will be commenced shortly. One shipment has already been made, which returned satisfactory values.

Lessee Dean formerly operated this block of ground, but confined his work to uprising and stoping from the 300-foot level. He was able to maintain a regular production of a low grade of ore in this way. The property has received little attention up to date below the 300-foot depth and the leasing company that is now operating the property is prepared to do some extensive developing below the 300-foot level. The pay is distant about 25 feet from the shaft at the 300-foot depth, but as it has a strong dip towards the shaft, the company will not have to go more than half of this distance to reach it from the bottom.

Lessee Jones, who, with his associates, recently took a bond and lease on the Pinnacle company's fractions on Gold hill adjoining the Colorado Boss, has struck good ore in his shallow workings on the Pinnacle and also in a 50-foot shaft on a sub-lease on the McPride block of the Colorado Boss. In the latter shaft there is about two feet of pay ore in the bottom, and in the Pinnacle [illegible] of ore have been located in the same vein close to the surface. The vein is the same as that which Terrill & Burke are operating to such good advantage on their sublease on the Cripple Creek Consolidated property. Jones and associates are negotiating to purchase an extension of their sublease from the main lessee, Ish & Tuttle.

O'Hara and associates, who are working a block of the Gold Sovereign properties on Bull hill, have opened a good sized body of pay ore in the 300-foot level of their workings. Although the ore shoot has not been opened up to any great extent, the ways that have been opened up so far show good pay values.

McFarland & Owyhby, working the old Wrockloch lease on the Burns of the Acacia company, yesterday closed a carload shipment that is expected to average between three and four ounces in gold to the ton. They have another consignment almost ready and it is expected it will be closed tomorrow. This ore is of about the same grade.

E. H. H. Von Rueckh who sometime ago projected the scheme of running a transportation and drainage tunnel through the district at a depth of 3,000 feet, has received a cablegram from London conveying the information that his plan has been indorsed by the English company which he represents, and that a [illegible] capitalized for $1,000,000 has been agreed upon. It is Mr. Von Rueckh's intention to run the tunnel from the junction of Cripple creek and Wilson creek north through the producing area. It is said that representatives of the English company will start for Cripple Creek within a few days. Mr. Von Rueckh has been working on his plans for some time, and believes that he has solved the deep mining problem of Cripple Creek.

ALAMO HAS SOME PROMISING ORE

In a Drift North From an 80-foot Winze Assays Running as High as $152 on a Foot of Ore Are Being Obtained.

Developments in the Alamo property during the past few days have been of a most encouraging character, and the work which has been done has now opened up what appears to be an ore shoot of considerable value. The company sunk the winze from the tunnel level to a depth of 80 feet, and then, at a total depth of 85 feet from the surface, started a drift north on the vein.

On December 5 ore was entered and a foot of the drift assays $24 in gold to the ton. The next day the following assays were obtained: One ore foot of the ore, $38.40; a grab from the screenings ran $28, while a second assay on a foot of the ore yielded $152. Monday the heart of the drift averaged $104.80 in gold to the ton, and the appearance of the ore was very encouraging.

If the values continue for the next few feet as they have been going, the mine will be assured of probably the best ore shoot yet exposed in the property. The company is carrying on the development on its own account, and good work is being done.

The Alamo properties lie on Gold hill, and lately have been worked through the Ophelia tunnel. Good ore has been opened in different places on the ground, but never at this depth before, and it is thought that the chances for permanency are now much better than at any time previously.

ISABELLA PASSES THE DIVIDEND

Owing to the Failure to Find Ore in the Bottom Workings They Have Been Abandoned, and the Company Is Making no Money.

The directors of the Isabella Gold Mining company met yesterday and passed the dividend, as had been expected. The report of the general manager has not yet been issued, but it will explain what has already been officially stated, that the lower workings of the mine have been abandoned, and that work is now being confined to the upper levels, and to the operations of lessees on the surface.

The passing of the dividend was a foregone conclusion, since it is well known that the company could not profitably divert any of its treasury to this purpose now, but the stock weakened yesterday despite the force knowledge, selling down from [illegible] to [illegible].

It is not yet known just what particular plans the company will pursue for the development of its very large acreage. The general plan is to run levels into the unexplored part of the property in the upper portions of the mine, and to do some new work in other places, and the property will probably be leased as rapidly as good lessees can be obtained.

Although the present condition of the mine is discouraging, the company's acreage is so large, and of such prospective nature, that the outlook for the future is by no means without hope, and it is by no means improbable that a richer pitch shoot should eventually be opened.

MR. PROUDFIT RETURNS REMUNERATED

And Reports That the East Is Willing to Invest in Good Propositions--Market Must Be Sustained by What Made It.

Mr. John W. Proudfit returned yesterday from the east where he had been in the interests of his mining business, and he reports that he was fairly successful. While away he visited New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities, and placed a large block of Portland stock. Mr. Proudfit organized the Portland company, and floated it in the east. The company is doing good work on its Raven hill property and has excellent prospects.

I found, Mr. Proudfit said, "that the eastern people are very ready to listen to mining men if they are advertising a reasonable proposition, and I found no difficulty in getting a hearing everywhere I went. I believe that all that is necessary for the local brokers to do in order to get business is to go east and secure it there.

"When the market was first organized the brokers secured a large portion of their business by working for it in the east, and they must work for it just as much to sustain it as they had to at first to start it. Good mining propositions are a popular form of investment, and should never go a-begging.

"There has been some talk to the effect that greater interest was being taken by eastern investors in Cripple Creek mining stocks, but I found little evidence of it while I was away. Eastern people will not become interested of their own accord. We must go east and arouse their interest."

ROSE MAUD STORY IS A CANARD

The Report That the Claim Had Been Sold for an Insignificant Tax Claim Is Denied by all Concerned in the Alleged Sale.

A sensational report appeared in a morning paper published in Denver yesterday to the effect that the Rose Maud claim had been sold for taxes, the sum being an insignificant one, amounting to about $5. The value of the Rose Maud claim is supposed to be in the neighborhood of $10,000, and although some very absurd tax sales have been recorded, the story was preposterous on the face of it.

The treasurer of Teller county was questioned yesterday in regard to the report, and replied that there was no truth in it, and the officers of the Rose Maud company in this city stated that the taxes had always been kept up, and that a tax sale would be impossible.

The claim adjoins the Doctor-Jack Pot ground on Gold hill, and is under lease to the Woods Investment company. Recently a good strike was made on the property, and the ground is supposed to have a very decided prospective value.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The annual meeting of the Doctor-Jack Pot company will be held today in Cheyenne, where the control passes into the hands of the Woods Investment company. The meeting is expected to be well attended, and although the stock of several of the factions will be represented, the majority voted by the Woods people is expected to be considerable. The company was organized a year ago, when it settled all the litigation which had been pending between the Doctor, Jack Pot, Nugget and Independence companies.

MEXICAN MINE HAS OPENED 100 OUNCE ORE.

The Victoria Mines corporation, owning a valuable estate in the Guanajuato district of Old Mexico, has recently opened up ore running 100 ounces in gold and silver in a wide vein. The strike was made at a depth of 450 feet in a crosscut run from the shaft. This information was received in this city yesterday by Mr. J. P. Pomeroy, one of the directors of the company. The report was sent by Superintendent McIlhenny, who was in this city a short while ago.

The ore has been opened in the Veta Madre lode, which crosses the property for some several hundred feet.

LESSEE ON PINTO IS WORKING RAPIDLY.

Judge Luther M. Goddard is pushing work in his lease on the Pinto. As the lease expires on the first of the year about all the men employed on the property are on ore. Yesterday he sent out seven narrow-gauge carloads and the shipment will net, after freight and treatment charges are paid, at least $1,000. J. B. Neville, working a sublease from Goddard, will make a 50-ton shipment from the 100-foot level today. Other lessees on different blocks of the Free Coinage ground are also making a steady production. Mercer & [illegible], who secured a lease on a block of the Pinto 30 days ago, are mining splendid ore at a depth of 20 feet, and in the past week have sent out 85 tons. The grade of the ore in this block averages about $55 a ton. The Free Coinage has been brought to the front under the leasing system, and it is the general belief that the directors, at the annual meeting on December 20 will decide to continue.

ORE OPENED ON GOLD KING OF SAVAGE.

The working on the Gold King of the Savage Gold and Copper company has disclosed a good ore shoot in the 300-foot level. The property is under lease to Mr. Ranstead, the [illegible] superintendent, who, returning from a carload of ore sent out last week which ran over two ounces in gold to the ton. The shoot on this, that has been opened up 40 feet west of the 300-foot point in the shaft and has been opened for 30 feet along the drift.

MR. ISH RETURNS TO CAMP FROM TONOPAH.

Mr. M. M. Ish, of the firm of Dowsby & Ish, a firm of well-known brokers of Cripple Creek, has returned to camp after a trip to Tonopah, Nevada, the mining district that has caused much interest of late to be drawn to it on account of rich ore and the indications found there. Mr. Ish's reports state that he has located some valuable ground, and has secured options on other lands out of which good mines are likely to be developed.

MILL OF O. K. CO. IS NEARLY COMPLETED.

The O. K. Mining and Milling company, composed almost entirely of Iowa people, has its mill on Four Mile and High creek, about seven miles southwest of Cripple Creek, almost ready for work. When completed, which will be about the first of the year, it will have a capacity of 25 tons per day. Just where and how the ore to run through this mill will come is a question to local experts, but the Iowa people are convinced that they have an abundance of mineral in sight and that they can demonstrate their ability to operate a mill that will handle 500 tons of ore per day. That the rock they propose to put through their mill can be treated by cyanide has been demonstrated. The only question now is as to the quantity of ore that can be obtained. Manager M. A. Abernathy is a close student and firmly believes that his company can do all and more than has been outlined.

EL PASO COMPANY SHIPS HIGH GRADE ORE.

The output from the El Paso on Beacon hill, is not large in tonnage, but the grade of the ore is probably higher than any other mine shipping an equal tonnage in the entire district. Last month the average of all grades sent out was better than $100 to the ton. At present an output of 40 tons a day is being made. The greater portion of the ore comes from the bottom or 600-foot level. The work of sinking the shaft an additional 200 feet will be commenced about January 1.

The Portland is shipping from 10 to 12 broad-gauge cars a day, which [illegible] averaging about $40 a ton. The December output will be the heaviest of the year, and in all probability will be the banner month in this great bonanza mine's history.

RECENT SHIPMENTS MADE FROM SEVERAL WORKINGS.

Lessees operating on the south end of the Four Brothers claim of the Acacia Gold Mining company shipped a car of ore that was settled for at the rate of $45 a ton. It came from the 200-foot drift upon which they are pushing development as rapidly as possible. The company owning the property is working on the north end and is meeting with encouraging results. They are driving on the contact which skirts the eastern edge of Beacon hill, where mining men have always expected that a great mine was to be found.

William F. Burns, president of the Cripple Creek City Land and Mining company, has ordered a new plant of machinery for the Roanoke, which will be capable of raising ore from a depth of 1,000 feet. The present shaft is down 500 feet. A mine car has been shipped from this Mineral hill property.

Kirk & Co., leasing on the Clara P., owned by the Lexington company, made a shipment on Saturday of 20 tons that will average from eight to ten ounces to the ton. These lessees are now in the best ore ever mined on the Clara.

The Monarch Mining and Development company is now running a crosscut at a depth of 90 feet in its block of ground on the World's Fair, owned by the Gold Bond company, for a known vein and ore shoot. Several small shipments have been sent out from this lease, one of which ran at the rate of $190 to the ton. The streak of pay is small, however.

SCIENCE SETTLES IT.

Dandruff is Caused by a Germ That Saps the Hair's Vitality.

It is now a settled fact that dandruff is caused by a germ. Falling hair and baldness are the result of dandruff. Dr. L. L. Bearsley, of Champaign, Ill., got hold of the new hair preparation, Newbro's Herpicide—the only one that kills the dandruff germ. He says: "I used Herpicide for my dandruff and falling hair, and am well satisfied with the result." Dr. J. T. Fugate of Urbana, Ill., says: "I have used Herpicide for dandruff with excellent results. I shall prescribe it in my practice." Herpicide kills the dandruff germ. Physicians as well as the general public say so.

To those who inspected the Mountain Boy during the last two weeks we say, come again. If you don't admit that we will soon have a mine and a big one, then we don't know one when we see it. You don't have to hurry—the electric hoist will carry you down and up slowly if you wish. Everybody welcome. Call or write for modest little booklet about Mountain Boy, then show it to your broker and ask him if he knows of any stock quite as good for quick profit or safe investment. Our offices are on the ground floor and always in charge of one of the firm.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Dec. 10.—The market today, almost without qualification, was dull, and the trading was slightly lower. From the active stocks in the list, to those in the common class which are traded in but once in a long while, there was nothing but weakness apparent, and the heaviest selling, especially on the properties last mentioned, was discouraging enough to cause the stock to be very discouraging, even if it not for the fact that there were no stocks of any value offered as collateral. This holds some encouragement for those who did not put up the collateral. Butterfly opened the trading by selling a cent lower at 19, Doctor was lower at all. Elkton opened three cents lower, and recovered only as far as $1.46, while Isabella came down from 66 to 65. Isabella opened at 34 and closed at 33¾, while Gold Dollar sold at 19 and Mint at 8. Pharmacist was in a little demand at 5¾ and Pointer was firm at 4½, and Vindicator sold again at $1.24. El Paso, Ajax was sold quite heavily, declining to 75c. Cabrera was firm at 4½ and Gold Knob sold at 5¼. In the common list the low priced stocks were more active. Horne Silver, which was floated at 15 cents, sold at $1.50 per 1,000 shares, Little Man declined to $2 per 1,000, and Hermosa to $8 per 1,000. Zoe was a trifle to the amount of 25,000 shares, and gained fractionally to 2.

SEVEN TO ONE

Sometimes the weight goes up that way when taking Scott's Emulsion. Seven pounds of new, healthy flesh from a one pound bottle of Scott's Emulsion is on record.

Scott's Emulsion brings everything to its aid; good appetite, strong digestion, rich blood, new body strength, and above all the power to get all the good out of ordinary food.

For those who are in need of more flesh there is nothing better. Thin folks try it!

Weak children thrive upon it. Put up in 50c and $1.00 sizes; all druggists.

EASTERN MARKETS

By Associated Press.

New York, Dec. 10.—There was a dearth of news in today's stock market except such as had to do with the personality of the operators and the interests they were supposed to represent. The well-defined movements of the day embracing the general market were limited to the upward rush of prices at the opening and the sudden relapse at the close. During the greater part of the day the market was sluggish and irregular, and traversed its narrow range of prices a number of times in totally inconsequent and dubious manner. The opening burst of strength was the natural momentum of yesterday's late strong recovery, belated shorts rushing to buy, but it soon became manifest that the short interest had been much reduced by yesterday's hurried covering, and there was no strong disposition manifested to extend commitments on the long side. The recent erratic course of Amalgamated copper threw the market into renewed confusion. After rising to 72¾ there was open selling by the brokers whose buying had been a strong influence in yesterday's rally in the stock, as they are credited with usually acting for inside interests in Amalgamated. The consequence was that the stock commenced to sag again in an irregular way until it had dropped down to 69½. The price then worked its way upward with occasional reactions to a high level of 74½c, representing a recovery of over 10 points from Saturday's low level for the stock. The general level of prices was affected by all of these fluctuations, but only to a moderate extent, the effect being more to discourage operations whether for the long or short account. There were some individual points of strength, notably in the Vanderbilts with large demand for New York Central and a number of less important railroads and industrials.

Included in the latter class were General Electric, American Smelting, American Car, Hocking Coal, People's Gas, Consolidated Gas and International Paper preferred.

The tone of the money market was much quieter during the day, and there seemed a sufficient supply at 5½ to 6 per cent, but late in the day belated borrowers caused a flurry of 8 per cent, by their urgent efforts to cover their wants, and the stock market made an immediate response, the whole list dropping suddenly to the lowest of the day on greatly increased dealings. Amalgamated copper fell back to 69½ and closed with a net loss of about a point. St. Paul and Manhattan fell rapidly, the former declining 2¾. There was no effectual rally in the market and the closing was heavy at about the lowest. The Sterling exchange market continued depressed and there is not much likelihood of gold exports while the money rates hold stiff. A deposit at the sub-treasury of $500,000 for transfer to New Orleans shows the interior pressure for funds. The heavy profit-taking of the day in the grain and cotton market gave hope of some money market relief by liquidation in that quarter. The heavy withdrawals from the money market by the government on account of the surplus gives cause for uneasiness and there was general expectation during the day that the secretary of the treasury would announce the immediate payment of the government's January interests as a measure of relief. The announcement of action in this matter came too late to help the market today.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG.

Prevents Many People From Trying A Good Medicine.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such people deem themselves quite clever in not being humbugged especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in earnestly trying the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different from other proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, but rather a maker of their ingredients, although they are sold by all druggists under protection of trademark, but analysts have shown them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pepsin and diastase, the alkaline salts, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food so thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and many other troubles which are often called by some other name.

London Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Dec. 10.—Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram: A better feeling dominated the stock market today on the reports of Kitchener's progress in putting down the Boer war and on New York rumors of a settlement of the copper fight. American stocks opened firm, and sold back in the absence of support. Then New York supported the market but it remained listless. Rio Tintos moved within narrow limits, at one time reaching 42¾, but closing unchanged for the day at 41¾. Copper was steady at £55 to the ton. Rio Tintos officials refuse to talk about the reduction of the output.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Dec. 10. Extreme nervousness and [illegible] characterized the grain market here today. Bulls and bears vied with each other for possession of the pits and all sorts of stories were afloat intended to influence prices. Bearish conditions, however, prevailed and May wheat closed 1⅝c lower; May corn 1⅛c down and May oats ⅜c lower. Provisions closed 10c lower to 2½c higher.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

The Metal Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Dec. 10.—The home and foreign metal markets were easy today with the exception of copper which was 2s 3d higher in London, that market closing with spot at £55 2s 6d, and futures at £55. The New York market is still more or less unsettled, and is quite impossible to make accurate prices. Therefore the quoted values are looked upon as being more or less fictitious. Lake Superior is quoted at 16½@17, electrolytic at 16¾@16¾, and casting at 16. Pig tin was quiet at home and abroad with a dip of 11s in London, prices which earlier quoted values there down to £127 2s 6d for spot and £125 15s for futures. An unofficial [illegible] was reported here with spot quoted at $28.87½. Lead remained quiet here and unchanged with London, 2s lower, closing at £10 15s. Spelter is nominal here at yesterday's quotations at $4.65. London was 2s 6d lower at £16 5s. Iron was dull in the New York market. Glasgow was 2d lower, closing at 55s 6d and Middlesboro closed 1½d higher at 48s 3d. Pig iron warrants were quoted at $10.50@11.50. No. 1 foundry, $15.50@16; No. 2 foundry southern, $14.50@16.50; No. 1 foundry, southern, $15.50@16, and No. 1 foundry, southern, soft, $15@17.

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN.

Recommendation of a Well Known Chicago Physician.

I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. Am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial affections. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago, Ill. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

AMUSEMENTS

"KING DODO" AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

"King Dodo," a brand new comedy opera, which has been breaking all sorts of records by continuing for five [illegible] months in Chicago with success, is announced for next evening. The piece is the joint work of Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, and is produced under the direction of the Castle Square Opera company, an organization noted for the elaborate character of its operatic offerings in the larger cities. The complete company of 50 will be seen here, including a special orchestra, the entire scenic adornment, and all the effects which characterized the long engagement in Chicago. Noteworthy members of the cast are: Raymond Hitchcock, Cheridah Simpson, Gertrude Quinlan, Miss Delamotta, Elsa Ryan, Greta Risley, Edward A. Clark, Arthur Wooley and Charles W. Meyer. Great stress is laid upon the beauty of the costumes, the elaborate character of the scenic pictures, the rattling vein of comedy permeating the piece, and the great number of catchy musical creations.

"FOR HER SAKE."

Some years ago a very famous novelist gave utterance to the dictum that literature was a closed field which young men would keep out of if they knew what was good for them, and another student of fiction even counted and classified the possible applications of plot which could be introduced into a novel or play. Therefore it was urged that we were to have no more fiction and no more dramas worthy of the name. Nevertheless good and original fiction is still being written and will continue to be written, while not a year passes that does not bring out several plays that will be preserved. Among the latter the already celebrated Russian melodrama, "For Her Sake," which will appear at the Opera house tomorrow evening, stands out conspicuous. This piece, although comparatively new, has already won public favor, and undoubtedly will one day be regarded as a classic of its kind. It is magnificently staged and acted by a company which could not be improved upon. The play abounds in good features, the dialogue is clean and bright, and the moral lesson taught will make a lasting impression upon those who see it.

"RICHARD CARVEL" COMING.

The whims and fads of our forefathers in early colonial days are made evident in "Richard Carvel," the production in which Andrew Robson is to be seen here at the Opera house next Saturday evening as much care and research have been applied to the minutest details of even the furniture and upholsteries.

There is no play made from a popular book, the quintessence of which has been so cleverly transferred to the stage as in the case of "Richard Carvel." Mr. Churchill's beautiful love story is fully told within the compass of a little over two hours of acting, and besides this many of the historical personages living at that time, as well as the dashing hero of the story whose character in its many-phased attractiveness is completely realized by Mr. Andrew Robson, are charmingly embodied by the actors. All the color and life of the novel are in the play. This of course pleases all who have read the book, and besides that they find Mr. Robson in a role which gives him the opportunity of which he avails himself, to do the finest acting of his entire career. Reserved seats are now on sale at regular prices.

A HELPING HAND

Is Gladly Extended by a Colorado Springs Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Colorado Springs prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

Mr. C. C. Chamberlain, carpenter, of 14 North Oak street, says: "Derangement of the stomach, accompanied with indigestion and constipation, affected my kidneys, causing backache and a weakness across the loins. When the attacks were most acute considerable bloating of the body existed, and it struck me after reading an account in our Colorado Springs papers about Doan's Kidney Pills that they might help me if I took a course of the treatment. I procured a box at Jones & Wellington's drug store, 109 N. Tejon street, and from the results obtained from its use I have no hesitancy in indorsing the claims made for that preparation."

For sale by all dealers; price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's—and take no substitute.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md., writes: During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores. I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and was cured. Cures piles, sores, and burns. Beware of counterfeits. Bedley-Arcularius Drug Co., C. E. Smith, 117 South Tejon street.

The Flights of the Swallows.

While the moist lands of the fields and the edges of the creeks were ablaze with the balm and the cardinal flowers, and the most striking displays of golden-rod, purple asters, and black-eyed Susans were yet to come, a signal announcing the approach of winter was seen in the air around the borders of the Adirondack wilderness.

For months the swallows had been rearing their families in tiny mud houses, hung under the eaves of the old barns, and in sod-roofed dugouts in the slip-banks. The young had been fed and trained until the youngest nestlings were a-wing, and the whole feathered community was able to go sweeping at will, hither and yon, over fields and woodlots wholly care free. In all the world no purer or sweeter air, nor safer resort, could be found than that in which these swallows were passing their days, and yet, on August 4th, their wise old leaders, warned by storm-signals unknown to the human race, gathered the scattered clans in one great flock, and for eleven days trained them all to fly together. For hours at a stretch day after day, they swooped and swirled, high and low, in a cloud, that at times, and especially toward sundown, resembled not a little the black tornado of the plains.

Then, beginning on August 15th, a cyclone came grandling its way up from the torrid zone. As the rainfall slowly increased, and the wind grew steadily in power, the swallows, with unfaltering flight, rose to the lowering clouds. And there they remained, flying swiftly to and fro on the breath of the gale, until lost to view in the gloom and murk of night.

For sixty hours the storm raged with fury, and then it died away, leaving the air as bergamot as in June. But the swallows did not come back to their homes. They had migrated to escape the rigors of winter.—(From "When the Snow Falls in the Adirondacks," by John R. Spears, in the Christmas Scribner's.

The overcoat you want to talk about today is a swell affair; it can hold its own in the best of company. But as it is made from rough finished cheviot, it's a tough article and will wear like iron. Its cut on the medium lines so it will not "queer" you next season. It's full of style, but devoid of any freakish passing fashion.

All sizes in regulars, longs and stouts.

Artistic Novelties in Ebony and Sterling...

Not only to be regarded from an artistic point of view, but regarded from the low prices they are found.

The rich, solemn beauty of the Ebony and the chaste, luxurious glow of the Sterling make a setting truly effective.

Aprons, Too, Bid Good Cheer

In giving—judge from your own sense of appreciation. It is not the gilded novelty that is most appreciated.

Now, aprons play a prominent part at Xmas time. What would please your domestic more than a nice, dainty apron.

Silk Sale Continued

Great crowds have taken advantage of our great Silk movement. In fact, the sale is day by day.

Despite the heavy selling a good assortment still remains. Continued Monday and Tuesday.
